The Initiative for Transformative Social Work (ITSW) invites College of Social Work students, faculty, staff, and alumni interested in anti-oppressive organizing and community building to join our inaugural ITSW Bootcamp.

Participants will build skills regarding:

- Organizing in coalition – language, power, and difference
- Conflict and critical conversations
- Anti-oppression theory and practice
- Building a resilient social justice movement

Facilitators:
- Gabriella Blanchard, University of Utah LGBT Resource Center
- Irene Ota, Diversity Coordinator, College of Social Work

RSVP by July 31:
Dr. Fukushima (a.fukushima@utah.edu), Director of ITSW, College of Social Work

Light refreshments provided

The Initiative for Transformative Social Work seeks to develop and nurture an inclusive and empowering community that pursues equity in the College of Social Work by promoting greater understanding, dismantling privilege, and diminishing power discrepancies. ITSW’s vision is to create equity in the College through student-informed and -driven initiatives that center social justice ideals and anti-oppression activities.

ITSW values community partnership and awareness-raising initiatives, peer support and collaborations with CSW educational units, and student and faculty development.
